Dedication

Rita Hawker

To the Class of 1995, Ms. Hawker is a teacher, a coach, and a friend who tirelessly supports us. We will never forget Ms. Hawker freely giving up sleep to chaperone both our Sophomore and Junior lock-ins. She never complained about assuming the responsibility for the graveyard shift (12am to 6am) at our school sleepovers. We also remember our junior year trip to Great Adventure. She traveled five hours on a bus with us (both ways!) just to share the thrill of all the amusement park's terrific rides; most notable was her bravery on the park's infamous roller coaster. These are just a few examples of Ms. Hawker's willingness to give up her time to help us with our class activities.

In addition to Ms. Hawker's generosity as a chaperone, her willingness to help and inform has touched all students at Longmeadow High School on an academic level as well. As a teacher, her schedule includes sophomore P.E. and health classes. Always caring about her students, Ms. Hawker makes it a priority to inform us about health issues, and in this way, personalizes a subject that covers many important and difficult topics. Because of her openness and high standards, students respect her. They also feel comfortable discussing with her the many problems that young adults face today.

Outside of the classroom, Ms. Hawker is affectionately known to all of us as Coach Hawker. As the J.V. Field Hockey coach, she spends long hours practicing with her team to fine tune their skills. At the same time, she encourages them to do their best and to have fun which in many sports, is an often left-out ingredient. Coach Hawker doesn't stop there. By taking on the position of Ski Club advisor, we have the opportunity to ski every week at Mt. Tom during the winter months. She is here for us all the time!

As students of Longmeadow High School, it is our privilege to dedicate the 1995 Yearbook to Ms. Hawker. Through her availability to our class, she has "minded our meadow," so to speak, and has given us the freedom to have fun in an adult world which places limits on the outside activities to which we would otherwise not have access. As a faculty member, Ms. Hawker has cultivated our potential in ways that often go unnoticed. Her selflessness, her fairness, her guidance, and her thoughtfulness, present both in and outside of the classroom, are fine qualities that we choose to recognize and carry with us as we meet the new challenges beyond Longmeadow.

SENIORS

From Your Advisors:

The Class of '95 has created new rituals, revived old traditions, and shared new adventures. As students and advisors we have spent the time growing and learning together.

As I write this letter to the graduates of '95, it is impossible not to remember the highlights. In the beginning, four long years ago, there was the Freshman Social, the very first weekend, where everyone quietly stood watching. This first adventure for Williams and Glenbrook as a united Class of '95 drew more nervous glances than dances.

The first Sophomore Lock-in was a tremendous night. Never before was so much fun packed into twelve hours at school, and the next year was to bring with it the first and only Junior Lock-in.

Traditions continued with the Sophomore Dinner Dance at Bay Path College. The clothes were different, the school buses the same, but the fun was unique.

Last year, we explored the unknown and shared a day of Great Adventure at Six Flags where rides were wild and the safari animals even wilder.

Rituals returned with the two Halloween Dances. This time, no one stood around unless they were admiring costumes.

The tradition of the Junior/Senior Semi-Formals provided the opportunity to further unite the class.

South Pacific was all experiences rolled into one. It incorporated the tradition of the Senior Class Play, learning to work together, and the adventure of giving two successful performances. Every student involved in any capacity will never forget "Some Enchanted Evening."

A special thanks is extended to the class officers who worked long and hard for little award or appreciation. They made all of it possible.

As the school year ends and graduation approaches, I want to wish the very best to every member of the Class of '95. Life will be full of challenges as you leave Longmeadow High School, but I am confident each of you have learned the skills for success. Best wishes!

Jacqueline Sutter
Class of '95 Advisor
Dean of Students

Looking back on the past four years, I recall numerous events which were great fun. First, the trip to Six Flags junior year. I will never forget those monkeys climbing onto the cars and having a great time, nor will I forget the laughter and excitement on the bus through that exhibit. Skiing at Okemo was terrific. These trips have afforded me the opportunity to get to know you in a different setting from the classroom and in school. You're a wonderful group of individuals who will move on to have successful lives.

The activities have been varied and exciting because of the people involved in the design, implementation, and participation. How many classes can say they have had two lock-ins? For those who stayed up all night and plan to attend college, you may want to build upon this past experience to help you cram for exams. The Spaghetti Suppers were not too prosperous monetarily, but I know the donations of the leftovers to The Open Pantry were very much appreciated. Life does have its share of ups and downs, so even though we lost out financially, we gained in other ways. I hope you can always look for the positive side to a situation and grow from it.

As I sit at my computer typing this letter, my cassette just flipped over in the player, and I'm now listening to Barbara Streisand singing "Some Enchanted Evening." The production of South Pacific was most entertaining. The hassles and commitment reflected in the production brought you together as a class and started you on the path to what I know will be the best graduation possible. I hope the memories from these activities will always bring a smile to your face as you recall your high school days.

This was my first experience as a class advisor. I would like to thank you all for making it thoroughly enjoyable. In fact, I'm considering doing it again next year because of my experience with such a wonderful group of students.

I would like to offer some words of wisdom from a great mathematician. Einstein gave the following mathematical formula for success in life: "If a is success, the formula is $a = x + y + z$, x being work and y being play." "And what is z?" he was asked. "Z," he said, "is keeping your mouth shut."

For those of you who asked me in Algebra I or II, "When are we ever going to use this stuff?"—please come back to visit or drop me a line to let me know how you're using algebra in the real world. I would find the information invaluable.

Best wishes on your future endeavors!

Ms. Lemoine

Okay, so maybe we never got to be safeties and wear orange belts with shiny badges and stop cars so little kids could cross. And maybe we had to take the new SATs with the old scoring system. Sometimes it seems like our class gets stuck with all the bad things. ...Then again, good things have happened too. We're the last senior class to get out of school a month early, for instance.

Remember freshman year? We made friends from the "other middle school," whether that other school was Williams or Glenbrook. We heard our teachers tell us how much work would be expected of us and how things were different in High School. We quivered.

Sophomore year meant that we could be especially mean to the freshmen, relieved that we were no longer pathetic frosh. Then we began hearing horror stories of junior year and we got scared again.

We expected junior year to be only slightly more bearable than eternity in the hot part of Hades, but it was actually fun. We worked hard, yes, writing three term papers, but we got our driver's licenses. We also discovered the refreshing power of "sleeping in" after a long night of hard work.

Senior year—the long-awaited paradise had arrived. Unfortunately, first semester meant college applications in addition to our regular work—a burden worse than that of junior year. Second semester, we succumbed to senioritis and, we must admit, sometimes slept in after having done no work the night before (shame on us).

We've all had different experiences from year to year, but we've shared a lot. Now we're leaving the town where most of us grew up. We're relieved to have made it and excited about the future, and we're also a little nervous.

Football

Record: 3-7. Captains: seniors Mike Germino, Seamus Murphy. Head coach: Alex Rotsko Assistant coaches: Dan Donovan, George Patterson, Doug Cropper, Bill Manchester, John Wilson. Strong players: Germino (running back, linebacker), injured halfway through season; Rick Sandler (center, defensive end), all-league; Jay Falcone (guard, defensive end); Jim Tremble (receiver, defensive back)—all seniors.

According to Rotsko, the football team "started the season with high expectations." However, injuries to several key players, including Germino, Murphy, Falcone, and senior Bill Cullinan, "hurt the team early in the year." "Once we got some injured players back, we won our last two games with a combined 75-21 score," explained Rotsko. Of note this season was a dramatic victory (in five-degree weather) over rival East Longmeadow in the traditional Thanksgiving Day game. Grace Lee

Cheerleading

"Our team is back and ready to fight, black and white, ready to fight! L-H-S! Let's hear it! L! H! S!" This year's cheerleaders once again kept school spirit up for players, spectators, and the pep band. Cheerleading coach, Mrs. Diaz, commented, "The entire squad worked really well as a unit, and we all had the same goal of wanting to learn and be the best." True to her words, the cheerleaders, led by captains—seniors Lorin Teres and Jessica Katz and junior Ellie Matroni, performed their best in the All Girls' Varsity Division Competition, placing fourth. With the help of the other coaches, Beth Pycko and two juniors from Bay Path College, the team successfully raised school spirit with their stunts and cheers at the football and basketball games. The cheerleaders' team spirit was equally high, and Teres said, "It was a young squad but we worked really well together this year to achieve our goals."

The leadership of coach Mike McCarthy and captains Mike Pacella, Kevin Hennessy, and Colin Blair, all juniors, helped the junior varsity Lancers to finish with a 6-8 record. Strong players were juniors Andy Mish and Seth Zimmer and sophomores Benjamin Harwood and Nate Portier. The freshman team (3-4-7) was coached by Don Hume and led by captains David Patterson and Matt Szlachetka. Standouts were Sean Keane, Rick Baker, Eli Greiner, Dan Rothschild, and Steve Stierer.

Cross Country

This year, Coach Cathy Holt coached both the boys' and girls' teams. The boys were led by captains senior Sean Bailey and junior Bob Browne, and the girls by junior Helen Yearwood. Both teams enjoyed successful seasons, especially the girls, who made it to the state championships. According to Yearwood, "Hard work, determination, and pasta led us to a strong season." Browne said, "We had many obstacles and we hurdled all of them to have a winning season." The successful season were the grueling workouts endured by team members also contributed to the winning season. These included speed and hill workouts, which involved runs to Forest Park and sprinting up Amphitheatre hill. Distance workouts might consist of up to ten miles. Talented runners such as juniors Sherry Spitz, Lynette Grypp, Jeremy Gershen, Bob Browne, Chris Moran and Helen Yearwood and freshman? Anna Yearwood, led the team to impressive records: 5-1 for the girls, and 5-3 for the boys.

Gymnastics

Sprinting down the runway, jumping on the springboard, twisting half-on the horse, twisting half-off the horse, and landing perfectly on two feet. Such moves were executed skillfully by LHS gymnasts every day. The team's hard work paid off as they placed third in their division and sent three gymnasts to compete in Western Mass.—sophomore Amy Peters, who placed second all-around in W. Mass.; Kirsten Riemer, an exchange student from Germany; and sophomore Andrea Sllachta, who received the Stephen Bradd Award this year.

"We had an excellent season," commented coach Harvey Stockhammer. "Everyone worked hard to perform their best." Led by captains Jessica Papaluca, Kristen Bradley, and Tara Smolowitz, all seniors, the team finished the season with a 5-9 record. Papaluca noted, "Most individuals improved a lot this year, and together as a team, we were able to overcome some hardships."

This year's boys swim team managed to achieve a great deal despite having lost a number of very strong swimmers. Senior Adeel Hassan explained, "A lot of people didn't think we would do well, but everyone stepped up for us and we still finished third at States." The team finished with a record of 8-2-1,with tournaments.

Senior Tony McGuiness, a team captain, said, "Our spirit definitely brought us togther. We did better that we expected." The team won second place in Western Mass. and third in the state. Senior Will Lutat, the other team captain, won first in breatstroke and third in the individual medley at Western Mass., and third in breast at States.

Coach Isabelle Frasier said that daily two-hour workouts "certainly paid off." Many outstanding seniors will be missed, she said, but she hoped next year's season would be equally rewarding.

That's how senior Areej Hassan, a captain of the girls swim team, remembered her last season on the team. Together, Hassan and seniors Jean Roger and Jessica Miller, the other two captains, helped lead the team to success.

Mrs. Isabelle Frasier, the team's coach, said, "The goal was to do our best at Western Mass. and at States, and looking back now, I think we did very well." The team placed fourth in Western Mass. and sixth in the state. Top swimmers included Roger in 200m individual medley and 100m backstroke and junior Karen Varley in the 200m and 500m freestyle. Wrestling

If you've ever been to a wrestling meet, you've probably left with one thought on your mind... Ouch! That's gotta hurt! However, what appears to be uncomfortable to the average spectator at these meets is actually a combination of wits and skill.

This year, the Longmeadow team was led by Coach Lowery and Assistant Coach Daly. Team captains were seniors Eric Jalonen and Rich Dambrov. With talented wrestlers Seamus Murphy, Seth Zimring, Jalonen, Jen Carroll, and Nick Shih, the team achieved a much envied and admired record of 10-3. Junior Brian Olney said, "We had an excellent season and we definitely progressed as a team. I'm very excited about our future." One accomplishment enjoyed by the team was making it to the Western Mass tournament. "Even though wrestling is an individual sport, they came together as one team with one goal," said Lowery.

The ski team had an eventful year. The team was coached by Bob Kimball and assisted by Jay Van Tassel, a 1993 graduate of LHS. Eleven boys and twelve girls practiced two times a week at Mount Tom and raced once a week a Berkshire East.

The captains were senior Laurel Davis, junior Katie Derosier, senior C.J. Diamond, and senior Pat Derosier. This year, the girls team did exceptionally well in Western Massachusetts and was ranked fourth in the state. The boys team, according to Diamond, "had a strong performance but came up short."

Some of the outstanding skiers on the team were seniors Peter Reynolds, Pat Derosier, and Davis; junior Katie Derosier; sophomores Elana Selby, Tiffany Brinkman, and Rich Blanchard; and freshman Caitlin Wagner. Noteworthy performances for the girls team were the Western Mass. Tournament and the third meet of the season, which they won despite the absence of some of their strongest skiiers.

Hockey

This year's hockey team was the strongest it had been for a number of years and advanced to the Western Mass. semifinals. The team, whoch finished with a 11-4-2 record, was coached by Greg Reilly and captained by Dave Long, Jeff Nietupski, Brennan White, and Jay Warwick. Standouts on offense included Nietupski, Warwick, Sean Keen, and Anthony Siciliano. Dave Long, White, and Bryan Long were especially strong on defense; also contributing were Jason Long, Billy Corcoran, and Jay Van Tassel. The team received strong defensive play from forwards Brian Keen and Jason Roberts as well.

According to Dave Long, Coach Reilly deserves much credit for the team's success. "I know he helped me a lot," said Long. "It was a quiet type of leadership. If you talked to him, he'd give you the confidence to back yourself up." Because the team was relatively young, with only three seniors, the outlook for the following year is very positive. Grace Lee

ORGANIZATIONS

National Honor Society

The National Honor Society faced the year with ninety more members than it had had in the past. The new advisor, Ms. Elizabeth Cushman, commented, "With such a large membership, the club has great potential to infuse the community with positive support and leadership."

This year's inductees were carefully selected by the NHS Faculty Council. In order to be selected, a student must show evidence of leadership skills, community service, and, most importantly, scholarship.

Once the students become members of NHS, they are responsible for providing private tutoring to other students. As Ms. Cushman said, "The students serve as role models to inspire others, and NHS is a good place for future leaders of our society."

This year's NHS officers are president Scott Brown, vice presidents Robin Brown and Abby Lamb, secretary Will Lutat, treasurer J.P. Micucci, and tutoring chairs Courtney Foster and Becca Freedburg, all seniors.

"We had a well balanced team this year and we worked together well, in giving answers under pressure," says Nuger.

With only a few practices, the team won a close match against Pittsfield in October. After this, the team was defeated by Gateway Regional.

Math League

Though scoffed at by some and dismissed as a team for nerds, this year's math league team proved that coolness can be achieved with pencils, scratch paper, a red minivan, and brilliant math minds.

LHS held their third-place spot and qualified for the state meet in the spring. Advisor Mr. Daniels, president of the Western Mass. Math League, gave his team the guidance and support (and transportation) they desperately needed.

This year's Science ague team, led by league visor and coach Mr. rsch, has had good re- ts and hopes to continue be in first place for the t of the year. The team rticipates in meets the st Thursday of every nth and has weekly etings.

Each meet involves two ntaneous events and "pre-built" event. Stu- nts from each school form all, four-person teams competition, but the fo- is on the larger school ms.

Some students are regu lars in the pre-built event and spend weeks (or in some cases, one night) constructing a solution to a given problem. Annual favorites include building the infamous pasta-mobile.

Though some seniors have experienced decreased participation this year (due to the fact that "they have their fingers in too many pies"), all interviewed expressed the sentiment that they have truly enjoyed competing at the meets and stated that they would "do it all over again."

Odyssey of the Mind

"Odyssey of the Mind is a national organization. What it entails, basically, is the team approach to problem solving. It stresses creativity, drama, and technology," says Mrs. Nancy Hayes, the director of the Longmeadow program.

Students are assigned long-term problems in October to be completed for the regional competition in March. Selected teams then go on to State competitions.

There are two teams at LHS. One consists of freshmen only (a team which last year advanced to the OM World Competition), and the other is made up of students from different grades. In Longmeadow, OM begins in third grade and continues through high school.

Freshman Julia Rousse remarks, "This year, we could choose from five different types of projects for competition, and we chose to do the dramatic one. It involves creating a vaudeville show."

Says Director Hayes, "Odyssey of the Mind proves to be very beneficial to students ... Although it is somewhat academic, many kids like it simply because it is fun."

"We all feel the same way. We're really not all that far off from one another," says Sandra Macdonald, the faculty advisor of Umoja, a club whose purpose is to promote multicultural unity at LHS.

One of Umoja's recent projects was the celebration of Kwanzaa, an African celebration that occurs at the end of the year. Umoja members dressed in African attire and brought the principles, the symbols (fruits and gifts), and the meaning of Kwanzaa to students in town elementary schools.

MacDonald hopes to extend Umoja's efforts to volunteering in both Longmeadow and Springfield through tutoring younger students.

The club meets every other week. Senior Armand Hill is the club president; junior Duane Gowe, vice president; senior Roshanna Griffin, secretary; and sophomore Nicole Moseley, assistant to the advisor.

"For a two-year-old group, we are doing very well. We have really come a long way," said Armand Hill.

Have you picked up a newspaper recently and read something other than comics, sports, or TV guide? Or leafed through Time or Newsweek instead of Seventeen? Well, if you haven't but would like to, consider stopping in at an Amnesty International meeting some time.

In its first year at LHS, the goal of Amnesty International is to educate students more about the world. President Amy Maxmen says, "The club supports human rights and protests against governments who have imprisoned their people unjustly."

The other Amnesty International officers are vice president Molly Shaffer and treasurer Dan Young. Mr. Fitzgerald is the club advisor.

Projects include writing letters to prisoners, Presidents, and the U.S. Bureau Office, as well as launching a campaign in support of the fair treatment of human rights activists in South Africa.

According to Maxmen, the club has "accomplished a great deal, considering that it's only our first year." Amnesty International hopes to continue to do well in the years to come.

Music Club

The Music Club was founded this year by juniors Carl Leichthammer, Debbie Chang, and Darcy Winer.

The club's first meeting, which took place in the classroom of faculty advisor Mr. William Kirkpatrick, was attended by over twenty students. There, Leichthammer distributed the newsletter he had created on his computer. Chang, Leichthammer, and Winer then explained that the purpose of the club was to give musicians at LHS more opportunities to perform and compose. The students in attendance then gave suggestions concerning concerts and other possible club activities.

The club plans to perform at nursing homes and to give a chamber music concert this year. Students who are interested in any aspect and any type of music are invited to join.

"We [the founders] noticed that there were no clubs at LHS related to music," said Chang. "Hopefully, the club will get more recognition as time goes on, and it will make a significant contribution to the LHS music community."

Director Jim Stewart discribed ABC as "a national program that brings kids from urban areas into Longmeadow High School to give them a better education."

Established in 1974, ABC provides a residence in town for these students as well as an education at Longmeadow High. The ABC House is staffed by two directors who are there twenty-four hours a day and a recently hired tutor.

There are five students who attent Longmeadow High that are currently involved in the program: Elward Tyrell, Dwane Gowe, Ariso "John" Herrera, Shatick Mitchell, and Brentan Debysingh.

METCO

METCO is an organization that provides students with the opportunity of a better education. This program was set up about thirty years ago as a desegregation plan allowing students from the inner city to go to school in towns with a smaller percentage of minority students.

The grades of students involved range from kindergarten through high school. There are typically about fifty students a year in the Longmeadow program. Dr. Murphy, last year's METCO director, is an avid supporter of the program. He says he feels that "any opportunity to get to know students from other areas is a great contribution to both the high school and the community." It is also important, according to Dr. Murphy, that students get a "different perspective."

Chairperson Sandi MacDonald can be found in room 121 for any students who may need assistance. MacDonald's opinion is that METCO "helps students to become better acquainted with others outside their towns."

Rough Draft

As those who are not dead or comatose know, there are two newspapers at LHS. The Rough Draft can only be referred to as the "alternative" one. Anyone who has opened a copy of this recently would see headlines like "The Sadistic Friend Page," and "What's your favorite source of fiber?"

These creative attention-getters can be attributed to the members of the Rough Draft staff: editor-in-chief Chris Hall, editors-in-chief Graham Gelling, Dan Ginsburg, and Brian "W" Olney, as well as Goat Herding, Smurf, Bunge Pyrotechnics and other a sorted editors, and faculty advisor Mr. Kirkpatrick.

The Rough Draft accep almost any article, the motto being, "You write i we print it." The Editor Note on the front page each issue (of which the are perhaps three or fou each year) often contain an plea for writers.

The club seeks to in-ease understanding and appreciation of the French culture and to explore the French influence on American culture. Members planned numerous trips to destinations near and far. To sample haute cuisine, the club dined at Madeline's Restaurant in Connecticut. They also considered a trip to Rhode Island to study French architecture in the Newport mansions and another to Burlington, VT, where they would have the opportunity to see how French settlers lived in colonial times. A trip to Quebec has been planned for future years.

Impressions

What is Impressions? The obvious answer—"the LHS literary magazine"—does not suffice for those who are part of the magazine's inside circle. Impressions means different things to the staff and editorial board—perhaps a memorable debate about the merits of lime vs. strawberry jello, the painting and sponge-stamping of the bedsheet/banner, the hazardous mounting and duct-taping of the aforementioned bedsheet, the search for textured paper, or the new and improved score-averaging process.

This year's Impressions staff (with their quietly feminist faculty advisor Ms. McShane) once again collected submissions, judged them, and prepared the magazine for publication. In their second year as editors-in-chief, seniors Reena Raman and Grace Lee supervised an editorial board made up of literary editors Gail Steiner and Liz Walat, copy editor Rachel Gordan, art editor Lara Robinson, layout editor Katy Weiss, and publicity editors Areej Hassan and Amy Kim.

The Masacksic staff, made up entirely of students, labored long hours to put together the professional-quality yearbook you presently peruse. Under the leadership of truly fearless editors-in-chief Marie Sedran and Alison Juozokas, deadlines were met on time (kind of, sometimes). Advisor Miss Osowski also played a key role in the production of the Masacksic (which, incidentally, translates to "long meadow" in a Native American language).

Though one of the Student Life editors said that she "had no idea how much work this [the yearbook] was going to be and wouldn't have done it if I had known," the overall emotional result at the end of the year was one of blissful fulfillment. The copy editor, who indirectly upset a cartload of last year's yearbooks in June 1994, said that she would no doubt treasure this year's highly superior edition. Editors also reported that a constant supply of sugar helped them deal with crises such as babbling brooks.

Wind Ensemble

Wandering the halls of LHS is an elite group of musicians known as the Wind Ensemble. Maestro Michael Mucci directs the forty-seven students of all grades. Members work hard all year long, attending many night rehearsals and sectionals in preparation for their three major concerts, the Winter Concert, the Pops Concert, and the Major Works Concert. Outside of school, students are expected to take private lessons and practice individually.

Members are honored for their musical talent outside of school. Some Wind Ensemble musicians participate in the annual Western District and All-State Festivals, while others are members of the Young People's Symphony.

Wind Ensemble students not only work hard but also have fun. Activities like their New York City trip bring the members together. According to one student, the Wind Ensemble "provides an opportunity for musical development and socializing."

CONCERT BAND

The Concert Band, directed by Michael Mucci, consists of 41 members, more than ever before. This year, the band has chosen to perform very challenging music and has been successful.

The Fall Concert had an air of excitement and captivated the audience with Incantations, Chant Rituals, and When the Stars Began to Fall. Musicians selected the pieces themselves, by majority vote. In the Pops Concert, the band teamed up with Wind Ensemble to perform themes from the hit movie, Jurassic Park.

As a long-term project, Mucci said that next year he hopes to take his three instrumental groups to Toronto, Canada to participate in competitions. The majority of the money funding this and other activities would come from the fruit sale that takes place every fall.

Concert Band's large size has contributed to its consistent musical growth and improvement. As Mucci put it, "Quantity definitely equals quality in Concert Band."

In the Amherst-Longmeadow Orchestra Exchange Concert, hosted by Longmeadow, the Orchestra played Holst's St. Paul's Suite, Gabrieli's Canzona, and music from Henry V by Walton.

In addition to Mr. Mucci's tremendous dedication, the section leaders—concertmistress Nahae Kim, principal second-violinist Grace Lee, principal violist Reena Raman, principal cellist Amy Kim, and principal bassist Stephen Dress—also play an essential role. Their duties include organizing and leading sectionals and "giving checks" for the second concert.

Performances of the Jazz Ensemble, directed by Michael Mucci, are highly anticipated. The group performs three times a year in Longmeadow—the Pops Concert, the Spring Concert, and at Long Meddowe Days.

Musicians who want to play in the popular Jazz Ensemble are numerous—so numerous that this year a second jazz band, called the Big Band, was formed after Jazz Ensemble auditions. Directed by Steve Beaudry, the Big Band performed at this year's Spring Concert.

CHORUSES

Let's start at the bottom of the music scale, and work our way up...

Freshman Girls Chorus: Kind of self explanatory, it's an introduction to help incoming aspiring musicians get to know the ropes of "Thomsen's music program."

Men's Chorus: For the male of the species, anyone - freshmen through seniors - desiring to sing without any screeching sopranos to cramp their style.

Concert Chorus: Any girls grades 10-12 who want to sing in the music program.

Lyrics: A slightly higher skill level, this group is audition only. Mixed voices, men and women, who often sing in harmony up to six parts.

I Cantori: This group is formed from the best of Lyrics. It is a small group that performs without the aide of a conductor or accompaniment but creates a gorgeous sound!

ART CLUB

"How did the bead sale go?" "Great—we made a lot of money!" "We should do it again." "Let's plan on a poster sale soon too." "Why don't we repaint the art hallway?" "When should we have our field trip to see the Boston Globe Contest?"

This is a typical Art Club meeting scenario. Club members discuss past and upcoming events enthusiastically, sharing their ideas and opinions openly. Junior Jen Suher, the president of the Art Club, said, "We just enjoy art together, and you don't have to be artistic to join because we just ask for your effort and creativity."

Advised by Mrs. Callahan, the club had another successful year. Membership increased, and many fundraisers as well as projects were planned. With the amount of money they raised in the bead sale, club members visited the Boston Globe Art Contest in late February. Senior Lara Robinson commented, "We had a lot of fun making the beads together," and senior Nahae Kim added, "It was a good feeling to be able to sell something that you made yourself."

Other planned projects included the poster sale, which was a great success two years ago, and the painting of the art hallway. According to Suher, "we've always been planning on doing this, but we haven't been able to get permission yet." She hopes the club will continue to do well in the years to come, because "the Art Club is a great way to meet new people, and to have fun, even if you're not artistic."

The Drama Ensemble consists of twenty-six individuals and is advised by Vickie Phillips. The group has weekly meetings from September to December during which they "train at a professional level," according to Phillips, working on scenes and exercises, monologues, and improvisation to provide a good foundation for those who wish to pursue a career in drama. "The work that we do helps us appreciate the work that other actors do," said sophomore Sarah Garb. "It makes us pay attention to the details."

In December, the meetings became more frequent in preparation for a competition on March 4. This year, the ensemble performed The Inner Circle, a play about a young man tries heroin, shares an infected needle, and gets AIDS, and his friends deal with the situation. In the production of the play, virtually everything was made by the students. The members painted most of their props and assembled materials that were donated.

All this hard work leads to an emotionally rewarding experience. "Last year, after our performance, I had a feeling beyond belief," said sophomore Lauren Gruet. "I cried out of happiness, and I had never done that before." Albert Lee

STUDENT LIFE

Summertime

Back to School

As the long-awaited summer of '94 drew to a close, the brilliant blue doors of our fair school swung open and sunlight was cast into even the darkest realms of Longmeadow High School.

On the thirtieth day of August, Dr. Murphy welcomed a new pack of fearful, lost freshmen venturing into a frontier. On August 31, the new freshmen had to face conflict with juniors, seniors, and of course, last year's freshmen (who were thrilled to no longer be addressed as the ugly F word). That bright morning was quite significant—it represented the beginning of a new year, a new era, a clean slate to draw upon, a renaissance in students' high school careers, an introduction for a new chapter in the book of LHS, and an exposition to a new movement in the concerto of life. Returning from jobs, camps, and vacations, most seemed psyched for a new year, returning to what they left behind in June.

The first day did not pass by without many surprises. There were tons of new classes, students, and teachers. There were a new parking lot, a new lunch schedule, new activities, and a new salad bar. Then there were BOOKS—mountains of paper weighing down the poor bodies of innocent students, intimidating them and foreshadowing the year's activites.

Bonfire

One of the highlights of the school events at LHS has always been the bonfire that helps to start the year right. This year, it took place on the 16th of September, kicking off the fall sports season, and bringing out the school spirit to those who attended. The night was exciting and enjoyable (not to mention HOT) once the bonfire was lit.

As usual, the senior class took charge of the bonfire, and class president, Paul Fix, introduced the team captains, which included football, girls' & boys' soccer, field hockey, cross-country, gymnastics, and cheerleading. The captains, in turn, introduced their team members as well as the starting lineups. Cheerleaders made the crowd go wild with their aerial lifts and flips.

Meanwhile, the pep band contributed their music to the crowd, lifting school spirit. Senior Jessica Polansky, a member of the band, said, "The band was great tonight, and it was fun being part of it."

Senior Caryn Malinowski added, "I had a great time and a lot of fun with my friends."

As firefighters put out the bonfire, only glowing ashes were left, and the big event finally came to an end. Although some people decided to go home, many went to the dance held afterwards.

Jobs and Hobbies

As most LHS students agree, there is life after 2:15. Most students keep busy at club meetings, sports practices, or other extra-curricular activities. And then there are those who are part of the work force.

Jobs at businesses in Longmeadow are very popular. For example, sophomore Adam Chasen works at Bliss Pharmacy and junior Jen Kiely works at Armata's. Many LHS students are also employed at Big Y and Friendly's.

Besides working in a store or a restaurant, there are other jobs which deserve recognition—like babysitting and delivering papers. This type of work is most common among underclassmen because a driver's license or a work permit aren't necessities.

Of course, not everyone at LHS spends free time earning money. Students favor a multitude of hobbies. Senior Stacy Blonder enjoys making FIMO beads, and sophomore Hilary Chaudhuri writes poetry and short stories. A hobby that isn't often in the spotlight is collecting comic books. Sophomore Nadia Mujalli, for one, claims to have accumulated three hundred of them. Others prefer to collect things pertaining to their favorite music groups, which can sometimes border on obsessive behavior.

Weekends

D4, D4, and D4 / Creeps in this petty pace from Friday to Friday / Till the last syllable of recorded time.

When the bell finally rings at 2:15, signifying the end of D-block on Fridays, students begin their weekends. Activities—which include stereotypical teenage "partying," music lessons, swim meets, watching TV, concerts, and sleep—are as diverse as the students themselves.

Friday night is generally perceived as a time to "go out." However, though few will admit it, a large number of students probably stay at home alone or with their families and watch TV. Often, school events such as football games and dances occur on Friday nights.

Weekend mornings are, for many, a chance to catch up on lost sleep. People may stay in their pajamas, if not in bed, for a good part of Saturday or Sunday. There are also a significant number of students who have to grit their teeth and greet the day early in the morning. Sophomore Ben Harwood, for instance, has to rise and try to shine at 5 A.M. to deliver papers.

Daisy Weeds Game

What is it called when... enthusiastic senior girls, wearing sweatshirts emblazoned with names like "Killbania" (Kori Kielbania) and "The Madh Squad" (Madhavi Shah), run around the cafeteria screaming... guys trade their jeans for skirts, make-up, and pom-pons... they all converge on the football field the day before Thanksgiving? The Daisy-Weeds game, complete with raging female football players and yelling male cheerleaders.

Daisy-Weeds divided senior girls into two teams: the Daisies, coached by Brian "Cogs" Cogswell, and the Weeds, coached by Greg Reilly. This year, the game ended in a Daisy victory, which, according to Cogswell, was due to "total team effort."

Senior Caryn Malinowski, a battle-weary Weed, said, "It was funny how a bunch of girls got together after four practices and played a football game."

Although the score was 14-0 in favor of the Daisies, the attitudes of all the players were similar to that of senior Simona Lo, a Weed, who said, "It was a good thing because it made senior year memorable."

Variety Show

On December 9, 1994, it was clearly obvious that the LHS Variety Show, produced by the Key Club, was off to a great start. At 7:30 P.M., the curtain rose as emcees Todd Kaylor, Robin Brown, and Sean Bailey were cheered on by the enthusiastic crowd. Welcoming the audience to the final production of hard labor and dedication, the three emcees used their creative wit and humor while giving a brief introduction and preview of the acts to be shown that night.

Among these various acts were Frydaddy, an original LHS band; soloist Darcy Winer, singing a cappella; many vocalists with guitar accompaniments; a comedy act involving a sideshow of student photos; and much more.

The "Jackson Five," reunited for another performance complimenting their past act in the Williams Middle School Variety Show of 1991. The group consisted of five senior girls.

The introductions to each act were original skits thought up, written, and presented by the emcees themselves. A few introductions involved revisions of skits performed on MTV's The State.

Judging from the delighted cheers of the audience, it was definitely evident that the variety show was the result of hard work, patience, and dedication.

Jr/Sr Semi-Formal

Each year, the junior and senior classes at LHS combine their efforts to arrange one of the most successful dances at the high school. This year, the Junior/Senior Semi-Formal was once again held at the Grand Ballroom of the Springfield Marriott. The elegant atmosphere at the Marriott was the perfect setting for for hundreds of snazzily-dresed upperclassmen to show off.

The dance began at eight o'clock, and many planning to attend went out to dinner beforehand. Places such as the Olive Garden and the Marriot Grill were popular. Once everyone had arrived at the dance, students began to show off their incredible dancing abilities.

Songs played included old favorites like "YMCA," "Oh What a Night," and "Paradise by the Dashboard Light," as well a number of newer selections.

The majority of those who attended this year's dance agreed that it was over too quickly, even though they proceeded to extend the evening at parties. Junior Jeremy Gershen summed up the evening by saying, "I had an unbelievably awesome time with my friends!"

Senioritis

What's it called when you stop doing your homework, start sleeping in, feel an overwhelming apathy or antipathy towards school in general, and adopt Clark Gable's last words in Gone With the Wind as your personal academic motto?

If you're an underclassman, it's called slacking off, delinquency, or a "failure to reach your potential." If you're a senior, however, these are recognized symptoms of a disease abhorred but expected by teachers: senioritis.

Senioritis begins striking individual students at different times during the year. Some seniors (like Reena Raman, who missed the first day of school this year to attend the U.S. Open) freely admit to having had senioritis since September. Others, such as those who are accepted early decision or early action at their first-choice schools, find themselves afflicted in late December.

The number of suffering (well, reveling, actually) seniors climbs dramatically in January once most college applications have been mailed and first semester ends. By late April and May, senioritis has become an epidemic, and the number of tardies, dismissals, and absences on the final report card is often phenomenally large.

One question remains: is there a cure for this disease? Teachers pray that one will be found, but as for seniors—well, we just don't care.

Travel Abroad

How does one escape the boredom of life in Longmeadow? Whether part of a vacation or a student exchange, travel abroad is the perfect escape.

The summer was the favored time for trips abroad. Madhavi Shah spent her summer in Spain, London, and Kenya. Reena Raman explored the radioactive land of the Ukraine. David Mish, Gail Steiner, Rachel Steiner, and Katy Weiss sweated in France, while Max Osofsky, Sarah Williams, and Ben Mikesh shivered in Chile.

A number of students also made foreign forays during the school year. Kori Kielbania celebrated Christmas in Spain. Jen Kuhr came to LHS in January, having spent the first part of the school year in Germany. Sarah Shine and Jeremy Gershen spent the second semester abroad—Shine in Ireland, Gershen in Argentina.

For four LHS exchange students, however, travel abroad meant living in Longmeadow. Kiki Riemer, from Biefeld, Germany, stayed with the Kuhr family from August to January. According to Riemer, her visit to the U.S. left her "very Americanized." Andrea Berryman, from Australia, also spent first semester at LHS (delighting students and teachers alike with her accent). Lisa Tillinger, a full-year student from Germany stayed with the Raffertys,and Sanra Kujala, from Finland, stayed with sophomore Amy Carlson's family.

INTRAMURALS

The main goal of the intramural program is to give students the opportunity to escape the stressful nature of interscholastic sports and simply play with their friends for enjoyment.

The intramural program is great for students wishing to get a good workout and have fun but not on an interscholastic team. Also, many students who are off season for their sport use the intramural program to keep in shape and in the sport spirit.

In this program, set up by Coach Cogswell, students form their own teams and select a captain. The team names, which are chosen by the captains, are usually offbeat—for instance, this year's names included "Chiquita Banana" and "Munchy Mitchy Mohawks."

The intramural sports offered are touch football in the fall, coed basketball, and boys and girls volleyball in the winter, and ultimate frisbee in the spring. The teams compete about twice a week and, at the end of each season, a playoff is held. The competition can be fierce for the title of intramural champion.

For those students who are involved in strenuous after-school sports which are time consuming and competitive, intramurals provide a more relaxing environment with the same amount of fun.

Senior Class Play

On February 2 and 3, the Class of '95 gave perfomances of the Rogers and Hammerstein musical "South Pacific". The annual senior production features and is produced solely by seniors, with the exception of this year's purely underclass orchestra pit. "South Pacific" featured directors Gail Steiner and Robin Brown, producers Kate Fletcher and Monti Llorens, artistic producer Alyssa Shelasky, and Pit conductor Steve Dress. The play also included the talents of Megan Stillerman, Tom Brunette, Rob Patterson, Amanda Rhee, Ryan Boutin, Amy Kim, and a large, enthusiastic chorus consisting of sailors, nurses and island natives.

The play provided some truly memorable moments, including Boutin cavorting the stage in a coconut bra and grass skirt. It was indeed "Some Enchanting Evening" and the Class of '96 has a tough act to follow.

Karen Tang

LAND HO! Megan Stillerman, one of the stars of the senior class play, sings of being a sailor in "South Pacific".

WASH WOMEN. The chorus backs up Megan Stillerman as she sings "I Gotta Wash That Man Right Out of My Hair".

MORE THAN WORDS. Rob Patterson, as Lieutenant Cable, sings "Younger Than Spring Time" to the mute Liat played by Amy Kim (above).

MAESTRO. Distinguished musician Steve Dress conducts the pit orchestra which is made up of students (right).

Senior Prom

It was no ordinary Thursday night, for tonight, fellow classmates would transform themselves from little boys and girls into adults looking toward the future. They were about to graduate from high school. On June 1, 1995, masses of the senior class arrived at the Springfield Marriot, dressed to the nines, for the annual Senior Prom. Music bellowed from the speakers, and many members of the graduating class took advantage of the evening to relive old memories with a herd of friends. After dancing far into the night, the exhausted party-goers jumped on the buses to go to Tent City, at Wolfswamp Field, a place filled with prizes, food, fun, and music. The night everyone had waited for had finally come and ended in a flash. Dresses and tuxedos were thrown aside as everyone grabbed their pajamas and slithered under the covers, thinking of memories and excitement, but also that the melancholy of high school was over.

Senior Banquet

RELAXED AT LAST. J.P. Micucci and Todd Kaylor sit and discuss the finer things in life.

On June 5, the Class of 1995 gathered at Longmeadow High School for the Senior Banquet. Typically, the Banquet is held at Chez Josef, in Agawam, but this year the senior class opted for somewhere closer.

Despite the less elegant setting, banquet festivities went on as planned, with hors d'ouvres in the decorated courtyard, a catered dinner in the cafeteria, and a slide show. There was also the distribution of yearbooks and the Senior Issue of the Jet Jotter. 1995 Masacksic editors-in-chief Marie Sedran and Alison Juozokas presented the dedication to Coach Rita Hawker. Another highlight was the announcement of the long awaited results of the '95 Class Ballot. At the end of the evening, the seniors departed with yet another memory of their last year of high school.

Chanel Dubofsky

READY TO EAT. Seniors sit down for the beginning of the banquet ceremonies.

FINAL POSE. Jenn MacDonald, C.J. Diamond, Kate Leonard, Carey Degon, Kelly O'Malley, Max Osofsky, Alison Juozokas, and Aaron Meyers come together for one of the last times before they go off to college.

CHOW DOWN. Students Sean Bailey, Jon Karpman, and Jay Heaps are eager to eat their catered food.

AWARDS ASSEMBLY

WITH HONORS. Amy Kim collects her many awards.

You are dressed head to toe in your graduation gear anxiously awaiting to hear your name called, as you sit before your fellow classmates, parents, teachers and underclassmen. This is not graduation, but the Awards Assembly. Held at the end of the year, its purpose is to honor those students in all grades who have shown incredible achievement in certain areas. As freshmen, sophomores, and juniors look on from the bleachers, the seniors are led in by marshalls from the junior class. This year, Nick Martinelli and Kim Weeks had the honor of leading the senior class in their procession. Then, the awards are announced and each recipient walks up to be congratulated by Mr. Berte and Mrs. Sutter and to receive their awards. It is a proud time where recipients can enjoy a moment in the limelight to show how their hard work has paid off. At the same time, it is a chance for fellow students to applaud their classmates and to show the pride they feel in their accomplishments.

Elizabeth Derby

RIGHTFULLY AWARDED. Alan Leavitt receives his award from Mrs. Sutter after four long years of hard work.

AT LAST! The graduates sit patiently waiting to hear their name called off to receive an award.

High Meadows

The final event of Senior Week began with an hour bus trip to Granby, Connecticut on June 8th. This was High Meadows, the last major social event for the Class of 1995 as a whole. Upon arriving at the Meadows, the senior class was greeted with mountains of food. Hamburgers, hot dogs, tacos, nachos, and salads were devoured as the hungry seniors packed away for the upcoming activities. Then the recreation began. Preplanned activities like the egg toss, water balloon toss, softball, and volleyball were enjoyed by all. Participants tried to impress the lip synch contest judges Mrs. Sutter, Ms. Lemoine, Mr. Reilly, and Coach Hawker, striving to be the best. And for those who still were hungry after the enormous buffet, a pie eating contest awaited. Tug-of-war was organized for those willing to test their strength against each other. Finally, the day ended with the seniors dancing to the music that the DJ played. The exhausted seniors were then shipped back to Longmeadow after what was surely a tiring but enjoyable evening!

GRADUATION

This year's graduation was held indoors, as weather forecasters predicted rain. The ceremony began with the Class of 1995 entering the gymnasium to Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance" played by the Brass Choir. Parents scrambled to take pictures of their son or daughter entering as the seniors took carefully rehearsed steps toward their chairs. Speeches were made by Principal Dr. Murphy, senior class President Paul Fix, Superintendant of Schools Dr. McGarry, and Mr. John Shea, an actor best known as the villain Lex Luther on "Lois and Clark: the New Adventures of Superman." All presentations addressed common themes of hope, challenges, and memories. Dr. Murphy also exhibited his vocal talents by leading the audience and seniors in singing "America the Beautiful." Finally came the moment that the Class of 1995 had anxiously awaited—the presentation of diplomas. The members of the class of 1995 bid farewell to their high school, looking forward to what the future would bring.

Major Works

On Thursday, May 11, 1995, the award-winning music groups at Longmeadow High once again astounded the audience. The Major Works Concert, featuring the Wind Ensemble, conducted by Mr. Mucci, began what was to be an unforgettable night with "Mars" and "Jupiter", two movements from The Planets by Gustav Holst.

Next to perform was the select choral group at LHS, Lyrics, conducted by Mr. Thomsen. They performed Gloria by Antonio Vivaldi. The featured soloists were seniors Sheri Cheng, Rachel Nuger, and Megan Stillerman, junior Krista Gladwin, and sophomore Lauren Gruet.

Ending a spectacular night was the Symphony Orchestra, also conducted by Mr. Mucci. The Orchestra played the famous Symphony No. 5 by Ludwig von Beethoven. At the close of the concert, there was no doubt in anyone's mind that these performers were excellent musicians and had tremendous potential. But many found it hard to believe that they are still just students. Imagine what they could do in a couple of years.

Spring Concert

This year's Spring Concert was proof of how hard the music department worked. The three hundred plus audience was fortunate enough to see a near perfect performance from every music student.

The evening had everything from classic Grateful Dead, sung by the powerful Men's Chorus, to superb student compositions written by sophomore Abe Libbos and senior Sheri Cheng. Libbos's "Gimmee some Grizzle" dazzled the crowd, but the highlight of the evening was LHS's Gold Medal winning Jazz Band. The band managed to prove with each note why they win Gold every year. The concert also featured the debut performance of the all-new Lab Jazz Ensemble, conducted by Anthony Beaudry, stunning performances by the Concert Band, directed by Mr. Mucci, and presentations by each of the choruses conducted by Mr. Thomsen. As tradition would have it, the concert closed with a combined chorus piece that would send everyone home humming. In all ways, the Spring Concert was a perfect addition to another outstanding year in the Music Department.

SOPHOMORE DANCE

Students anxiously gathered in the LHS lobby at 6:00 p.m. on the twenty-fourth of March, looking foward to attending the annual Sophomore Dinner Dance. While some waited patiently in line to receive their tickets, others chatted with friends, making comments like, "Ooh, I love your hair, how did you do that?"

Mrs. Sutter and several teachers nervously "checked everyone in." Then, the velvet and silk clad students were put into the buses in which they would receive the friendly escort service of Bob, the bus driver, to Baypath College.

After the rather bumpy bus ride, the sophomores and their dates arrived at their location for the rest of the evening. They quickly chose their tables and then went up for food. After dinner was over, the crowd was eager to dance and the floor filled up quickly.

The night ended abruptly at 10:30 p.m. and those attending were uncomfortably squished into the buses once more. Some went home for a well deserved sleep, while others joined their friends at post-dance parties.

Baseball

This year's Longmeadow Varsity, JV and freshmen baseball teams batted their way through a tough season. This year's LHS varsity baseball team was led by captains William Lutat and Brian Hayes and coached by Chuck Lelas. "Overall, we had a close season; most of our losses were within one or two runs. We were a young team and we had a positive quality." Captain Brian Hayes agrees that, "The team was much better than the record (about 5 wins) showed." The JV team record showed only 4 wins this year. Coach Eric Mandell says, "Although we did not have a good record, I felt like the majority of us worked hard and learned a lot to provide a solid base for next year." Coached by Dan Donovan, the freshmen team holds promise for next year's JV and varsity teams. Although the teams didn't have their best season ever, it was definitely one to remember in terms of spirit and attitude.

Softball

This year's LHS varsity and JV softball teams had a "hit" season, literally. The varsity softball team was led by captains Taryn Samol and Heather Barr, and coached by William Manchester. They had an impressive season, scoring 11 wins, 2 ties, and only 6 losses. Samol remarks that, "Although this wasn't an extraordinary year in terms of softball, it was in attitude. We definitely bonded well together as a team and supported each other throughout the year." The JV team, led by sophomore captain Patti Hampf and Coach Quinn, consisting of freshmen, sophomores, and juniors, remained undefeated throughout the League season. "With close to 20 people on the team this year it seemed like it might be hard for all of us to get along. But we had a great team and ended up having a really good season, too." Although several of the senior players will be gone in the fall, this year's softball players are looking forward to another great season next year.

With new coach Roger Anderson and captains Sean Bailey, Ben Baraldi, Tom Pragluski and Jeff Smith, the team had a productive year, laying the foundation for the years to come. The team had many talented athletes, such as juniors Jeff Smith, Bob Browne, Eddie Libfeld, Colin Cathrew, Seth Zimring, seniors Tom Pragluski, and Ben Baraldi and sophomore Matt Schill. They worked hard and many qualified for the Individuals and Western Mass competitions, as well as earning a record of 2-6. Senior Ben Baraldi even competed in the state championships. After such dedication and practice this year, next year will definitely bring more success.

Boys' Lacrosse

This year's LHS boys' lacrosse team, led by coaches Glen Maller and Nick St. George and captains Tom Brunette, Bill Cullinan, Evan Levine, and Jim Tremble, had a difficult year due to a tough prep school schedule. Although they had a few disappointing losses against some Western Mass teams, they eventually avenged themselves by winning the Western Mass title over Minnechaug. Some outstanding players were the captains Brunette, Cullinan, Levine, and Tremble, along with juniors Ben Baxter, John Harrelson, Kevin Hennessy, Justin Loonie, and Nick Martinelli. The outlook for next season is very promising, for the team is young and many excellent players will be returning.

The JV team also showed much potential, although their record did not show it. The captains were Jeremy Michael, Jeff Anzalotti, and Luke Youmell. Some key players were Benjy Russell, Jeff Blair, and Eric Kloster.

The Girls' Varsity team, led by Kathy Parker along with captains Courtney Glenn and Rachel Allen, played an immaculate season with 16 wins, 0 losses, and 1 tie and earning the right to win the state championships in their home town as the top seeded team. Parker remarks that, "This year's team had a lot of good players and it was a well rounded team which contributed to our success." The varsity team consisted of 3 seniors, 13 juniors, and 1 sophomore. Melissa Crandall, the sophomore on the team, says that, " We had great team unity and everyone always had a chance to contribute to the team." The JV team, led by coach Maurine Parker and captains Erica Hess and Tricia Cullinan did "exceptionally well" according to Coach Parker and came out with 10 wins and only 3 losses. This year's Girls' Lacrosse teams definitely had a season to be proud of!

The 1995 Boys' Tennis team enjoyed a challenging and successful year as a result of their intense practices supported by their coach, Bill Kirkpatrick, and talented and enthusiastic captains. The team, led by seniors captains Jim Shea, Max Osofsky, and junior Colin Blair, made it to the Western Mass.Championship for the second year in a row. The players that competed for the title included Osofsky, Shea, Jeremy Elman and Naveen Murthy, juniors Jeff Kirstein and Blair and sophomore Jason Smith. Shea and Blair won the Western Mass. individuals title for doubles, and Kirstein won the team sportsmanship award. When asked to comment on the team's season, Blair explained "Our year was off to a shaky start, but we ended up pulling together as a team and making it all the way to the Western Mass. finals." Indeed, the combination of players made up one of the best teams ever for LHS.

Team members recieved individual awards as well. Senior Jen Macdonald and junior Michelle Kuhr were voted the MVP's of the Western Mass. district and senior Kate Leonard and junior Carolyn Knight won both the Western Mass. and State individuals. Senior Amanda Rhee was praised for managing to remain undefeated in the Western Mass. district matches for all four of her years on the team. Bergeron Dedication Longmeadow High School suffered a significant loss to it's community in 1995. Mr. Peter L. Bergeron, a revered faculty member, passed away in January after a long illness.

Mr. Beregeron began his career at LHS in 1978, and helped to create a superior collection of reference materials. He is remembered by many for always being available to help students find what they needed, no matter how desperate the situation.

On numerous occasions Mr. Bergeron went out of his way to make the library available to students in the evening, by coming in on his own time. He also provided the departments with various bibliographies to help students do research. According to Mrs. Peck, Mr. Bergeron was "always willing to go the extra mile to help students."

Those who knew him describe him as a man with a "playful sense of humor, he loved puns and playing with language. " He was also very concerned about "individual people's rights."

Mr. Bergeron was a valuable part of the LHS faculty and his contributions to the school are of incredible significance. He will be missed.
